We ferrled the river (the main fork of the Mercad) and encamped about four miles above the "Veil" and "El Capitan," and nearly opposite the "Yosemite Falls," beneath some giant pines, which are dwarfed by the immense peaks towering above. There are two new hotels here, but we preferred the clean pine forest, the pure air and clear sky (.hat of Italy cannot enrpase it in beauty), surrounded as we were by starlighted mountain peaks, with the 'Yosemite Pall" of 1,500 feet at a single p unge in fall, fair

The following morning we were up early, occled and aste breakfast, and were off to like Tosemiter Falls," and to the lake at the upper end of the valley. This fall is made by the Yosemite river, and, although the highest by far of any, is vet, to me, the least interesting of all. This is owing to the fact that it is impracticable to approach the fart great fall of 1,500 feet, the second of 600 feet, and the third of 600 feet. We viewed the secte from the foot of the last fail, and, being much under the cliff, could searcely see the second, and had an imperient visw of the first fall. In fact, the imposing view of the preasiful in the lake, it was an alignt, from our camp, when its allvery flood seemed to pour out of the blake heavens, and its trammada. As the tile lake, it was scarcely worth seeing, and does not deserve a word of notice. Buttle grand, the glorious, the independable "Yernal and Nevada Faila" walted us the next day. These Falls, about seven miles above the "Veil," and nearly free above the "Yosemite," when we saw it was much larger, but being fed by the meiting snow of the Sierrs Nevada, it is sometimes dry. Clambering up this fearful slope, we found at the rock, over which the torrent poured, ladders of 650 feet with a "Yankee" at the foot, keeping an extempore grocery, containing liquors and sardines. We all ascended and looked down upon the fearful fails and rapids, and most of us went up to "Nevada," the last fall, about half a mile above the "Vernal Falls." As for Green's crime, the Repu livan says:
But abuse is not argument, and disco invective is no match for candid reasoning. No execution in this State was ever more completely and perfectly legal than this one. The murder was premedisted and cold-blooded, and the murderer himself confessed the crime.
The murder was not commuted under impulse or passion, but was clearly and distinctively one of deliberate planning. Its saw a single life between himself and the mouse he coveted and needed, and he went for his pietolshot young Converse, pocketed the money, and went about his business. Green was not a smart man, hardly a manof ordinary parte; but all the talk of his being an idiot and mental dwarf, and, therefore, deserving of clemency, is simply ridicusous. He occupied two reasponelbic offices—postmaster and express agent—in a town of several thousand inhabitants. Such effices are not usually conferred upon idiots, and the best evidence shows that Green was no exception to the general rule.

WEDNESDAY APRIL 25, 1866.

Gen. Palmer delivered a farewell speech n Monday night at the Court-house, moderate n tone, but leaning too much toward radical-The General is not naturally a radical rough he tries to be. Toward the close of his ech, we find the following aliusion to the arnal, as given by our own reporter:

Journal, as given by our own reporter:

"This morning," he said, he "saw win one of our leading papers (meaning the Journal) an article on the great civil war that was to take place if the questions of the day are not nettled." "Who will you fight?" saked the speaker. "No, sire slowly and gradually the people will settle the question. Sherman and Grant and other noble patrices will stand by the right." The uccessive of war, he said, caused by the refusal of the States to submit to the powers of the Genral Government has passed. No threats of war need be made to swerve the people from duty. Four intendation by threats of war is past. But, if it should come, instead of 25,000 men you will find that 750,000, are more, will rise up to resist any effort to destroy the will rise up to resist any effort to destro rule, you have to submit; if another party rule, have to submit; and I will do it.

With due respect to the speaker, we assert the article he refers to, or missepresents it "Whom will you fight" forsooth? Whom have people fought in all civil wars? Whom have they been fighting in Mexico for forty years? Why, each other; and it is this which makes all

The General save that, if war should come. 0,000 men or more "will rise up to resist any effort to destroy the acts of the General Gov- articles from responsible public prints? ernment. If the Radicals rule, you have to and I will do it."

That is all very well, but it hers the entire Monday. It leaves that question untouched. by an administration which, for the time being, represents it.

The terrible question which looms up grimly | principle upon which the Governor endeavors before us, if our difficulties are not settled be- to act, and he has made it known by his refore the next Presidential election, is, What and | pested oral as well as written communications, which may then be the Government to which is fully and clearly set forth in an editorial to two Presidents elect, so to speak, which will be follows: the legitimate one who will have a right to be not lend his influence toward effecting a settlewould undoubtedly say, "No: I would not."

A MAR FOUND DROWNED AT SHIPPINGPOR THE BOY IN THE WATER THREE OR FOUND WELLS.-Coroner J. C. Gill yesterday held an inquest on the body of an unknown man, who was found drowned at the mouth of the canal, near Shippingport. The man was supposed to be a German, and was aged about fifty five or sixty years. He was about five feet nine inches high, had short gray hair and beard, had on a caseimere frock coat, white shirt blue jeaus pants, and no vest; had in his pocket a pair of steel framed epectacles and a pocket kuife. The body was discovered floating down the river, by mes Napier, who brought it on shore. The body was much decomposed, and had the epnce of having been in the water three or WAREHINGTON, April 24.

The Secretary of the Treasury has written a

The Secretary of the Treasury has written a letter to the Chairman of the Secate Finance Committee, on the apportionment of the national currency. He says that Senate bill 256 is seemingly general in its provisions, but in effect it singles out Massachuretts, Connecticut, and Rhode Island and reduces their circulation to a certain arbitrary etandard. It practically as-serts that the circulation of the national banks in Massachusetts shall be dishinished sixty per cent, the circulation of the national banks in Connecticut shall be dishinished five per cent, and the circulation of the national banks in Rhode Island shall be diminished seventy-four per cent.

This principle on which the reduction is based

This principle on which the reduction is based is not a correct one. One hundred and seven yefre thousand of the rural population of Ohio or Illinote do not need a teath part required by the menufacturing and commercial communities of Rhode Island. This bill is an amendment to section 21 of the present National Currency act, and propose to withdraw the circulation from banks, reducing the ratio which it shall bear to the capital. It will affect the banks in all the States, more or less, by a certain fixed rate.

The reduction is to be effected gradually as the circulation becomes worn and mutilated and is returned for redemption. The amount by which the circulation is to be the diminished approximates $25,000,000, and it is proposed, in anticipation of this reduction, to authorize the issue of circulation to banks in Statics that have secured the least proportionale amount of circulation as it may be needed.

E. The Secretary thinks it is important that Southern State banks should have an opportantly to become national banks, otherwise, by the operation of a law of the Uvited States, they will be compelled to wind up after the first tear of set July and that it is a matter of they will be compelled to wind up after the first day of next July, and that it is a matter of made to meet the wants of more castles wants below been in reballion. Banking facilities are necessary to develop the industrial interests of the South, and to stimulate the production of these staples which enter so largely into the financial interests of the country.

ACROGRAPH TREFER OF THE OFFEE TO ME PRABODY -The following graceful letter has been written by the Queen to Mr. Peabody: WINDSON CASTLE, March 28, 1868.

Wirdson Castle, March 28, 1865.

The Queen beare that Mr. Peabody intende shortly to return to America, and she would be sorry that he should leave England without being ascared by herself how deeply she appreciates the noble act of more than princely munificence by which he has sought to rehere the wants of the poorer classes of her subjects rotiding in London. It is an act, as the Queen believes, wholly without parallel, and which will carry its best reward in the coneclosuses of having contributed so largely to the assist ance of those who can little help themselves. The Queen would not, however, have been satisfied without giving Mr. Peabody some public mark of her sease of his munificence, and she would goldly have conferred upon him been estified without giving Mr. Peabody some public mark of her sense of his munificence, and she would gladly have conferred upon him either a Ba oustey or the Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath, but that abe understands Mr. Peabody to feel himself debarred from accepting euch distinctions. It only remains, therefore, for the Queen to give Mr. Peabody this assurance of her personal feelings which she would further wish to mark by asslig him to accept a ministure portrait of herreif, which she wild further wish to mark by asslig him to accept a ministure portrait of herreif, which she wild further wish to mark by asslig him to accept a ministure portrait of herreif, which she wild flower to have painted for him, and which, when finished, can either be sent to him to America, or given to him on the return which, she vejoices to hear, he mediates, to the octunity that ewes him so much.

The London Times tast: "It is to an American that we are indebted for the greatest boon evergiven to the poor of London, and it is to a citizen of the Urthed States that the Queen has thought it right to address this personal expression of gratitude. We cannot but believe that such an occurrence will have no little influence in agreementing the good feeling which should prevail between the two countries. Mr. Peabody hee done more to foster among us a kindly feeling for his countryment than could have been effected by a generation of statemens, and the Queen's letter will, we here, be received by the Americans as a conspicuous evidence of the friendly regard toward them which such acts have called forth-on our part. Between no two countries are friend. It relations more natural than between Ragour part. Between no two countries are friend-ly relations more natural than between Bag-land and America, and we trust that this story of munificence and of gratitude may long be re-membered in both nations as a piedge of peace

The Star has the following notice of the Queez's letter:

We feel sure that it will be regarded in Amer-We feel enre that it will be regarded in America as a suching end trusty evidence of the feeling of brotherhood which, after all the hard words that icolish or designing people have said on either eide of the ocean, does still sub-cist between Greas Britain and the United States. In America Sawakhow, the feeling toward our royal family has long been of the most genial nature. It is not forgotten there how one of the latest instances of Prince. a most critical moment to brevent the ntter-ance of any unmeasured words which might ance or any unmeasured words which might band to complicate the grave dispute then pend-ing between the two great countries. The letter of the Queen to Mr. Peabody will rerew, if it needed renewing—strengthening. If it requires freeh attength—the kindly and cordial feeling.

Matermonial and Financial Bonds in John Law's Thee.—One of the linery speculators in John Law's notions Massiship Scheme, of the last century, was a man of the name of the last century, was a man of the name of Andre. Without character or education, this man had, by a series of well-timed speculations in Miscissipit bonds, gained enormous wealth, in an incredibly short space of time. As a writer of that day expresses it: "He had am series of the lowness of his birth, and arxious above all things to be allied to nobility. He had a daughter, an infant only three seers of age, and he opened a negotietion with the aristocratic and needy family of D Ones, that this child should upon certain cheditions marry a member of that house.

The Marquis D Oyee, to his shame, consented and promised to marry her himself on her attaining the age of twelve, if the father would pay him down the sum of a hundred thousand crowns, and twenty thousand livree every year. owns, and twenty thousand livres every year, netl the celebration of the marriage. The until the celebration of the marriage. The Marquis was himself in his thirty-third year. This coards low bargain was duly eigned and realed the tuck jobber furthermore agreeing to estle upon his daughter, on the marriage day, a fortune of several millions. The Duke of Branese, the head of the family, was present throughout this negotiation, and shared in of Branes, the head of the family, was present thrunchout this negotiation, and shared in all the profits. M. Simon, in his account of this transaction, and who treats the matter with the levity becoming what he thought so good a joke, adds, that "people did not spare their srimadversions on this beautiful marriage," and further, states that the project fell to the ground some in other afterward by the overthrow of Law, and the ruin of the ambitious Monsieur Andre it would appear, however, that the "noble" family never had the honesty to return the burdred thousand crowns.

A DISHOREST GOOD TEMPLAR -For months past here have been almost constant com-plaints made to the West Side policemen about robleries being perpetrated at the Ball'a Hand House, at the meetings of the home lodge of the Washingtonian Home. At almost every meeting costs have duappeared, and there seemed to be no possibility of finding the least trace of the thief. Sergeant Garrity has been almost at his wir's end to get some clew which would lead him to the depredator, but not till last night was his diligent search rewarded by his getting on the proper track.
